

Department of Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

A seminar jointly sponsored by the Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology and the

UC Irvine Salton Sea Initiative

Margaret Rubega
University of Connecticut

“Nobody cares what you know:
How, and why, to talk about your science so that the public, the media, and policy makers will listen.”

Friday, November 21, 2014
3:00pm, 134 Steinhaus Hall

Margaret Rubega is an Associate Professor in the Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology, at the University of Connecticut; where she also serves as the Curator of Birds, and the Connecticut State Ornithologist. She is an Aldo Leopold Leadership Fellow (2005 awardee), a fellowship aimed at training mid-career scientists to communicate effectively with the public, policy makers, and the press. She conducts training in technical and public communication.

Followed by a reception on the roof of Steinhaus

Please contact Professor Tim Bradley: tbradley@uci.edu to schedule a meeting with our guest speaker.